Why Choose Custom Made Windows?

Aside from the energy savings and protection from solar radiation; there are many additional benefits of new custom-built replacement windows for your home or business, including:

- Custom-build windows provide a quicker and easier installation due to fewer materials like sheetrock or new framing and molding. The precise measurements ensure your custom windows fit seamlessly into your window opening.
- Preserve the integrity of older and historical homes with architecturally correct custom windows to maintain the structure's original character and avoid construction restrictions that may change the look and feel of your prestigious vintage home.
- Noise reduction will greatly contribute to the comfort of living in an older home. Affordable replacement windows along with improved insulation will reduce outside noise pollution.
- Our standard Low-E glass will protect your furnishings from fading over time. This specialized window coating reflects harmful ultraviolet light that can cause fading damage to furniture, curtains, drapes, rugs and flooring with prolonged exposure.

- Unique design options are virtually limitless to replicate an existing window or to feature a design of your own creation. Advanced Windows can customize your replacement windows to any shape and style.

Replacement Windows Made for Utah's Demanding Climate

The National Fenestration Rating Council (NFRC) provides certified ratings based on performance criterion that varies by each distinct climate zone in the US. The State of Utah is located within the Northern climate zone, with the exception of Washington County, which is located in the South-Central climate zone. Advanced Windows provides the following ratings for windows manufactured here in the state of Utah:

- The rate of heat transfer is called the U-factor. This determines how effective a window will stop the escape of heat from the interior of your home. The U-factor rating to look for if you live in Northern or Central Utah will be less than 0.27 for windows. Washington County residents require 0.30 or less.
- Solar heat gain coefficient or SHGC provides consumers with a rating to show the increased thermal energy from solar radiation absorbed through the window. The SHGC performance rating for the Northern climate zone does not have requirements, but the SHGC rating for the South-Central climate zone should be at or below 0.25.
