Choosing New Windows

Windows that are more than a few decades old will start to show their age by sticking when you try to open them, or they let in a draft, easily fog-up or are warped or damaged.

Investing in energy efficient replacement windows will affect your home's aesthetics, energy use, and comfort level. According to Energy.gov, homeowners will save, on average, between 10 - 15% on energy bills with energy efficient replacement windows and homeowners who sell their home will see an estimated 73% return on investment.

Making the decision to replace your home's windows is just the beginning. You will want to consider your budget and choose features like window design and function, frame style, glazing, gas fill, and spacing options. For the best results, you should also understand a window's energy performance label from the National Fenestration Rating Council (NFRC) for energy efficiency and the importance of proper installation to ensure the warranty remains valid throughout the window's lifespan.

What to Look for in a Window Replacement Company

The most important things to look for in a Herriman, Utah window replacement company include a strong reputation, past customer references, valid licenses and insurance, experience, and the company's workmanship warranty. As a rule of thumb, you should get at least three detailed bids to compare products, services, and pricing. Make sure that services like installation, an installation schedule, and debris removal are included.
